Market Gardens of the Table Valley

In about 1804 an unknown artist made a drawing of the Table Valley. It shows icons of the market garden houses on the slopes that embrace the town. Each has the owner’s name written next to it. It was made between August 1802 (when P van Breda married the owner of Nooitgedacht) and June 1804 (when he died) – possibly late in that time frame as A Bester did not take transfer of Tamboerskloof till November 1803.

The houses are a mix of thatched roofs and flat roofed types. They may be icons of how the houses looked (but aren’t) or perhaps say something about the owners themselves.

Who were these people?

It happens that three of the four surviving censuses of Cape Town were taken between 1800 and 1807. I selected all people who had entered details of agricultural activity. I transcribed the data and correlated it for each property and each year. Where known, transfer deed numbers (T) from the Deeds Office are added. The results are in the tables which follow.

Denis Verschoyle’s map conveniently names the gardens and outlines the shape they had grown to by 1820 (Verschoyle 1977).

Standard names

The names of market gardens frequently changed. Bellevue in upper Kloof Street was called Schoonzigt in 1800, Belvidere in 1805 – it is presently the St John’s housing estate. Some did not have names at all, like the widow Leuman’s house now called Villa Maria. They are listed by standard names generally following Verschoyle; common alternative names are listed in the index.

The census

"The opgaaf was an evolving document that grew out of the monsterrollen (lists of the garrison) of the 1650s and 1660s, and by 1680 was one part militia muster, one part agricultural tax list and one part demographic census. [...] There is ... no reason to suspect inaccuracies in the census enumeration of slaves until the 1820s. [...] From 1795 through 1806 the censuses are incomplete. The Company system probably broke down. We do know they were taken, since both John Barrow and Robert Wilson used them but only a few verbatim copy fragments from rural districts have survived.” (Shell 1994:439-444.)

Opgaafrolle at the Cape Archives

The 1800 opgaaf was commissioned in February 1805 (Kaapse Plakkaatboek 1795-1803 V pp202-203) and apparently undertaken immediately. The main part is Cape Archive file J37. This lists permanent residents (lines 1-1213). It also has a supplement that lists some persons with their pay written off, or released from service by the Company, as well as those who remained at the Cape after capitulation with consent (lines 587-658, differentiated in the tables below with the prefix b). Cape Archive file J38 of 1800 is the earlier part of the supplement of those who remained at the Cape after capitulation (lines 1-586). Rosenthal 1969 indexes J37 and J38 by name and by address. A further addendum is in J443, dealing with Free Blacks, Vrycorps members and Khoi. Heese 1983 indexes this by name.

The 1805 opgaaf (CA J39) was commissioned in January 1805 (Proklamasies en Kennisgewings 1803-1806 p81) and was being written up by March.

The 1807 opgaafrol (CA J41) was written up between August and December 1807. There is further 1807 data in CA J40. It has a section listing Table Valley residents (differentiated in the tables below with the prefix tv). It also has a main section of Cape Town where some market garden owners lived.

Incomplete data

All the rolle are incomplete and important people (like Michiel van Breda and Francois Duminy) are missing for some years.

Sometimes several farms were owned (or loaned) and the data in thus combined. Attention is drawn to this where evident.

Translation and spelling

Following Rosenthal, ij is shown as y. Spelling of tuyn varies but is here consistently altered to tuin.
Otherwise spelling - and Cape measures - are transcribed as they stand.

Normal English equivalents have been generally used. An exception is ‘wyn & tuin’ since ‘vineyard and market garden’ is cumbersome. A knegt may be thought of as a paid senior servant.

A morgen is about the size of a rugby field. Or 0.8566 hectares if you prefer it that way. There are 600 square roods (sr) in a morgen. A legger (leaguer) is 682 litres. Measures like ‘mudde’ can be thought of as a standard measure of grain, more useful for comparative purposes than as an amount in itself.

The data collected on each rol are slightly different. For example, 1800 lists "runderen" (literally oxen but perhaps meaning cattle), 1805 subdivides cattle into "trek oxen” and "beesten”. 1807 cattle numbers have often been pasted over. They are standardised as ‘cattle’ throughout.

Karren (in 1805) and 2 wheeled vehicles (in 1807) are here called carts. Wagens and 4 wheeled vehicles are here called wagons. Other translations are tarwe = wheat garst = barley
hawer = oats
rogge = rye
weide = grazing is bekwaam tot al = is suited to

The Table Valley drawing

The artist is not known. Three of his characteristically lettered drawings survive, all dating from the same time. He was probably therefore a visitor.

However, the data he records is very complete. Except for Schoonderzicht – a half-morgen farm – he includes all significant market gardens above Orange Street that appear in the census and correctly identifies their owners. He must have had a collaborator who had intense local knowledge. The buildings around Oranjezicht are particularly accurately observed (and one of his other drawings is taken from behind the orchards there) which may hint that a van Breda was involved – perhaps even commissioned the diagram.

The artist’s spatial arrangements are accurate except for the four properties bottom centre, which are rotated. Also, he evidently made typological errors writing Ss Brink (instead of Js Brink) and the right-hand F Brand (which should be H Brand) since the important farms De Hoop and Schotse Kloof (owned by these men in 1804) would otherwise not be accounted for.
